Office Action Summary

Art Unit: 1617

Prosecution is reopened to address additional issues^S arising under 35 USC 112:

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 43-62, 64-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EPA 590604 (EP '604) in view of Sramek and Chem. Abstract 117546 ('546).

Applicants stipulate that EP '604 teaches the claimed "acrylates" copolymer (page 7 first two paragraphs), '604 teaches freeze-thaw stability in hair sprays (abstract). 2-20% water is specified (page 5 lines 20-27). The copolymer provides excellent performance^C characteristics, including feel and shine (page 2 lines 35-37).

Sramek teaches an aerosol composition containing hair setting resins (abstract). Hair setting resins which are acrylic polymers containing such monomers as methacrylic acid, hydroxymonoesters of methacrylic acid with C2 glycol, methyl methacrylate, and butyl acrylate are specified (column 5 lines 59-65). Sramek also teaches alcohol and water (col. 5 lines 54-65). Generally less than 10% water is disclosed (column 5 line 68-column 6 line 1). Water soluble cosmetically acceptable basic compounds, including AMP (column 9 lines 22-34), perfumes, protein hydrolysates, preservatives, and silicones (column 9, lines 47-56), the last disclosed by applicant as a conditioning agent on page 30 second paragraph, are specified.

Art Unit: 1617

'546 teaches a hair setting polymer comprising C2-8 alkyl acrylates, meth^lymethacrylate, hydroxyethyl-methacrylate and methacrylic acid. High effectiveness and water resistance are disclosed.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to add the polymer of '604 to the composition of Sramek to impart freeze-thaw resistance and to use the polymer of '546 as a hair setting polymer in view of its high effectiveness and water resistance. As to the claimed 41% aqueous dispersion of the hydroxyacrylate, applicants disclose such is an item of commerce (example 6, page 39).

Claims 43-62, 64-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Nowhere in the specification as originally filed, do applicants disclose "A polymer chosen from acrylates/hydroxyesters acrylates copolymers".

Claims 43-62, 64-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. ~~N~~owhere in the specification do applicants disclose polymers which are copolymers of acrylate monomer and monomers which are hydrox^yesters of acrylic acid.

Art Unit: 1617

Claims 43-62, 64-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

"Polymer chosen from acrylates/ Hydroxyesters acrylates copolymers" is indefinite. First, it is unclear as to whether a Markush group is intended with the language "chosen from". The intent of the slash is unclear. Do applicants intend a copolymer comprising acryllate monomers and monomers which are hydroxyesters of acrylic acid? The phrase "hydroxyesters acrylates" Is meaningless. Is "of" intended between the two nouns?

No claims allowed.
